We made the charge as stated by the Journal that John Coburn was in favor of negro suffrage, and in reply to the above demand of the Republican State organ, we said at the time:

"The report in the Gazette was taken from the Journal of that morning. The

The Journal and General Coburn most taken by a speech was taken by the second of the company of the second of the may twist and wriggle as much as they please, but they can not go back on the report. Phonography is an ugly thing for party speakers."

The precise language of General Conun as reported and published which gave MARBLE sent the dispatch: rise to the above, and which was used by him in his Masonic Hall speech on June 19th, 1866, was as follows. Discussing the constitutional amendment he said:

"Every man in this country, without one solitary exception, shall have and be protected in the enjoyment of the com-mon rights of humanity—that he shall have the right to testify in courts of jus tice, and to have, and to use and enjoy the reward of his own labor. More that that. Now for the first time the men o Indiana are to be equal at the polls with the men of the South. From one end of the land to the other the same raito of representation shall prevail. These are our principles. Upon this platform we shall stand or fall this year. And this country will stand, and we will stand successful and victorious, and on the great issues of the equal right of every man in the ballot box of the country. This is true freedom."

In the face of this language, which we

It may be said of Judge Niblack that it was owing to his efforts that the eight it was owing to his efforts that the eight hour law, so far as Government mechanics are concerned, was adopted. He introduced a bill to that effect at the commencement of the present Congress, and at last forced the unwilling radicals to permit it to become a law. The workingmen of his District will not soon forget such services.

Of the other candidates it may be said that, though none of them have been in Congress, they are not thoroughly inexperienced in legislative matters. They have all we believe been mended to be a such services.

Expert Liars.—The Indianapolis Journal is a shaken the confidence of the Republicans hereabouts in newspaper veracity. The meeting alluded to was perhaps the largest one ever held in this county, and yet the Journal had the dishonesty to assert that it was but poorly attended, and devoid of enthusiasm. What confidence can hereafter be placed in the Journal's statements by those who were present at the great meeting last Saturday? Of what account is a newspaper that will not tell the truth? The Journal habitually disparages every Democratic meeting that is held, no difference how large and enthusiactic it may be, and exaggerates every little convocation of long-faced radicals at a country school house as an "immense outpouring of the people!" For talented liars commend us to the Journal reporters.—Lebanon Pioneer.

MORE BLACK MAIL.-George C. Harbaugh, postmaster at Frankfort, received an epistle from the radical National Committee in Washington, advising him that they would like to have $18. To which Mr Harbaugh replies:

"Having spent over four years in the Union army, and still being in favor of the constitutional union for which I supposed I was fighting, I can not now give either money or influence to a party which labors incessantly for consolidation and despotism; which not only disregards all the pledges made by it to the army, the people and the world during the war, but disregards also all constitutional restraints and all fundamental principles of civil liberty.

straints and all fundamental principles of civil liberty.

Mr. Seymour is a statesman of acknowledged ability and integrity, and was put in nomination for the highest office in the gift of the people by a party, which, whatever else may be said of it, has always favored a republican form of government. Your party has not done this for the last three years, and I shall vote and act with those who have."

The STATE SENTINEL appeared in a new dress on the Fourth. It presents a neat and beautiful appearance. The SENTINEL is a most excellent journal, uncompromisingly advocating the great principles on which our government was founded, while it tearlessly denounces the anti-republicanism of the Jacobins. phine with the intention of killing herself

Mr. Kinney, one of the freight conductors of the Jeffersonville Railroad, while arranging his toilet in his room at Jeffersonville, on Monday night, was taken suddenly ill and survived only a few minutes. Heart disease was the cause of his death.

James Gaddis, baggage-master of the Toledo, Wabash & Western railway, at this point, was thrown from the top of a car, and falling on the track had his right leg so badly crushed that amputation was found necessary.—Huntington Democrat

"Mr. Pendleton, we presume, will be offered the Treasury Department; this would be fit and proper. But Governor Seymour would owe nothing to Henn or Seymour would owe nothing to Henn own, toward whom the hearts of all sound Democrats instinctively turn, and to whose agagedly, courage and eloquence Governor Seymour is mote indebted than to any other, or, indeed, all other men to any other or the state of the RAILROAD TROUBLE-ROLLING STOCK occasion, often in the past, to thank you for esteem, and countence, and support. I can only to might repeat to you the words which I have so often before uttered. Democrats of Hamilton county, you are my neighbors and my acquaintances; you have known me from my boyhood; you know my political opinion, my personal character, and the motives by which I have been governed in all my public life. You have given me a cordial and earnest support for the highest office in the Republic. [Applause.]

You have said that you are willing to confide to my keeping its duties and its responsibilities. [God.] And though you were defeated in your choice, you have given to me so many tokens of your sympathy and personal devotion that my heart swells with an emotion of gratitude, which my trembling voice can scarcely find words to express.

heart swells with an emotion of gratitude, which my trembling voice can scarcely find words to express. [Cheers.] You have laid upon me a burden of obligation which I can not repay. I shall always endeavor to deserve your confidence, and the memory that I have it here to-night will be the proudest reminiscence of my political life. [Cheers.]

And what I say to you, my fellow-citizens, I might say with almost equal justice to all the Democratic party in the State of Ohio, and to the hosts of friends from all the other States who seconded their effort. And it gratifies me very much to know that here, at my own home, my recognition, my acknowledgements

my recognition, my acknowledgements are due, not only to my Democratic, but also to many Republicans, convinced, some of them perhaps, of the correctness of my opinions, and some of them actuat-ed by personal kindness, desired my success.

And while I am on this subject, my friends, I hope it will not be considered out of place for me to say to all Democrats and Republicans—to those who differ with and Republicans—to those who differ with me as well as those who agree with methat in all the warmth of political discussion, I have endeavored to cultivate the amenities of life, and that where it was necessary te differ I have differed without intending to impugn the character, or question the motives, or excite the bitterness of those with whom I have felt called upon to differ; and that it gives me pleasure to know that the struggles of fifteen years have left no sting of bitterness in my heart toward any of my fellow-citizens, and to hope that they feel none toward myself.

TAMMANY HALL CONVENTION. I have had occasion lately to speak of the proceedings of the New York Conven-tion. I approve them all. [Cheers.] I approve the platform; I approve the nom-inations. The platform announces the principles for which we have so zealously struggled. I have enumerated them be-force.

Fidelity to the Constitution!
Fidelity to the Union!
Fidelity to the rights of the States!
Fidelity to the liberties of the citizen!
Fidelity to the principles of free govern

Fidelity to the principles of free government!

Fidelity to that policy in matters of finance and taxation which, by paying the five-twenty bonds in legal tender notes, will lift from the shoulders of labor the burthens which oppress it; and by equality of taxation will make it to reap the just rewards of patient and cheerful industry. (Appliance) dustry. [Applause.]
Governor Seymour and General Blair have each explicitly declared that they cordially approved those principles. [Apcordially approved those principles. [Applause.]

Our candidates realize all we expect in pure, patriotic, able, cultivated Christian statesmen. I have known Governor Seymour well. I knew him throughout the trying scenes of the war. I have closely watched, for many years, his course and his opinions; and I tell you in all sincerity this night that he is the first statesman in America. [cheers], and that we can ty this night that he is the first statesman in America, [cheers,] and that we can commit to him more safely than to any other man the destiny of our Government in these troublous times. Self-possessed, cool, calm, sagacious, moderate, tolerant, he will unite deliberation in council with vigor in action. And seeking nothing but the enforcement of the Constitution, he will believe a back to unice and recessed.

INDICATIONS OF THE CAMPAIGN. I am glad you came here in such numbers to-night. I am glad to see this immense crowd—this great outpouring of the people. I am glad to recognize so is not known whether she took the mor- | many of our political opponents an your familiar faces. The spirit which an imates them fills my heart with hope. It is not the enthusiasm made to order by imates them fills my heart with nope. It is not the enthusiasm made to order by the claquers of politics, nor yet the zeal engendered by party dicipline. It is a spirit of thoughtful and anxious inquiry—of boding fear, It shows that the public calamity weighs heavy on the public inind. It shows that the management of public affairs excites their apprehensions. It shows a fear—shall I say a conviction—that the great powers of Government have fallen into unworthy or unable hands, and are being wielded now rather for the advancement of a party than for the good of the country. [Applause.]

My friends, I desire to reason with you to-night. I will not speak to you in any partisan sense. We stand in exactly the same position. We are fellow-countrymen—fellow-patriots. We have the same lives to live, the same blessings to win, the same dangers to avoid. We have the same interests, the same country to love, the same institutions to preserve, the

the same institutions to preserve, the same liberty to enjoy. We ought to be—we are alike honest in our motives thoughtful in our investigations, and sincere in our convictions. [Applause.]

I believe in the principles of the Democratic party. I desire to woo you to embrace them. I believe they will maintain our liberty and perpetuate our Government.

You have been, perhaps, for a long time members of the Republican party. You have given to it your love, your confidence, your votes, your money, your exertions. You have installed it in absolute power. It has had uncontrolled sway, Has it answered your expectations? Has it satisfied your demands? [Voices, "No. No."]
Answer this question not to me. Answer it to your conscience, and to your God. [Applause.]

QUESTIONS AT ISSUE. The two great questions into which pol-ities are now divided are, restoration of the Union, and the management of the inances and taxation.

Has the policy of the Republican party atisfied your first demands on either? Voices—"No, no." RETROSPECTION.

Let me recall to you the retrospect of a few years. We were told that the object of the war was to enforce the Constitution and to maintain the Union. Mr. Lincoln told us so in his inaugural ad-dress. Mr. Seward told us so in his dis-patches to foreign ministers, and in his the United States mail will be tested. If the road is crippled in rolling stock so in that it can not carry the mails between Lafayette and Michigan City and Chicago, and intermediate points, of course Uncle Sam will have something to say in the premises.

The Political Change in Ohio.

The following, from the Dayton Ledger, is one of the many evidences of the political change that is now going on in this State. It says:

"Charles Morris, of Troy, Qhio, one of the leading lawyers of Miami county, and hitherto an active Republican, has announced his intention to support Seymour and Blair, Quite a number of other prominent Republicans of Miami county that the Democracy there are even confident of being able to carry the county this fall."

The Democracy and the Workingmen.

This was continued till the very end of the war. When Mr. Lincoln met the Southern Commissioners at Fortress Monroe, in the spring of 1865, he expressly declared to them that he only required that they should lay down their arms, recognize the abolition of slavery, and return to the Union; that no other condition should be demanded. We were told that illegal force impaired the relations of the States to each other; that the force must be removed, and the relations would of power and a revolutionized Government had ditted before their eyes. [Applease.]

Six months elapsed and the fourteenth amendment to the Constitution was proposed. You are familiar with its provisions. Citizenship in the States was to depend upon the will of the Federal Government, not of the States; the rule of representation was to be changed so as to reward the admission of negroes to the elective franchise and to punish their exclusion. The ban of proscription in the States was to put upon all who had aided in the rebellion, and to question the validity of the public debt—in the manner. I shall do to-night—was treated as a crime. If this were adopted by a vote of the Southern States—these States which now tell you had committed suicides is years. before—they half promised their Senators and Representatives should be admitted to Congress.

Six months again elapsed, and another change came over them. The radicals and triumphed. The reconstruction acts were passed. The State Governments, which had been so often invited to perform the highest acts, were abolished. Military despotisms were set up in their stead. The maintenance of order—the protection of life, liberty, and property—the establishments of new Governments founded on different principles—were founded on different principles—were beauthed to the charge of a military of incer, backed by the short, sharp practice of neartial law, and drum head courts—martial. [Cheers.]

WHAT IS NOW PROPOSED.

Eighteen months elapse. A Presidential election approaches. All the large Northern States show great uneasiness. Many openly pronounce their defection. The radicals are alarmed—they feat decided for more valuable.

WHAT IS NOW PROPOSED.

Eighteen months elapse. A Presidential election approaches. All the large Northern States show great uneasiness. Many openly pronounce their defection. The radicals are alarmed—they fear defeat. They must take up from the reorganized States at the Sonth whatever they may lose at the North. They pass a law regulating the electoral colleged determining what votes shall and what shall not be counted in the election. They declare that none of the old States are States—that no electoral votes shall be counted except from States which have been reorganized since the spring of 1867—which have adopted new constitutions—which have adopted new constitutions—which have been admitted to representation by this Congress.

Do you understand the meaning of those provisions? The State of Alabama, two months ago, rejected absolutely the Constitution, which was submitted to a vote of her people; yet that same rejected Constitution is put in force by Federal arms, and she is admitted to representation because it is believed that by its stringent oaths so many whites will be disfranchised that her electoral vote will be carried for the radicals. (Bahl and

The Radicals understand this. They pass laws, and organize States, and provide for electoral votes, and impeach the President, but in the meantime they distribute arms to the negroes of the South; they bind to them the army and the navy by holding access to the paths of promotion, and they present, as their candidate for votes, that man in whose hand they have put the powers of the President and the absolute power over the reorganization of the Southern States.

If they can not elect by fraud, is there no reason to fear they may usurp by force?

THE FINANCIAL QUESTION.

And have you been better satisfied with the management of the finances and taxation?

The whole scope of the financial policy of the Republican party is to compel the payment of the public debt in coin, and so to reduce the currency as that the coin will be most difficult to get and most valuable to possess. Its whole taxation policy is to subordinate labor to capital, and the agric tural labor of the West to the manufactures of the East.

There are outstanding to-day about seventeen hundred millions of dollars in ation?

manufactures of the East.

There are outstanding to-day about seventeen hundred millions of dollars in five-twenty bonds. They are payable in legal tender notes The law says so; the bond says so; Thaddeus Stevens, Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means, said so; Senator Sherman says so; Senator Morton says so; General Schenck says so; the Funding Bill of the House says so; the Funding Bill of the House says so, for hoth propose to pay in legal tender the bonds which are not surren.

stringent oaths so many whites will be disfranchised that her electoral vote will be carried for the radicals. (Bah! and tax of the owner. So you do care about it. [Cheers.]

Mississippl also rejected the Constitution submitted to her people, but as the oaths of that Constitution are not so stringent, and the whites might give a Democratic majority, she is denued representation, and her electoral votes are not to be counted.

Virginia is supposed to have white population enough to adopt or reject her Constitution, and then in either event to give the electoral vote the Democratic candidate, and her name is immediately stricken from the list.

tail dealer. In their rents they pay the land tax of the owner. So you do care about it. [Cheers.

Do you believe there is purity in the administration? Do you believe a fair amount reaches the Treasury? If not, who is responsible? You have a Republican Congress to make laws, Republican Senate to confirm appointments, a Republican Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Republican officials everywhere.

The taxation, State and Federal, amounts to about eight hundred millions a year, nearly six per cent. of the whole date, and her name is immediately stricken from the list.

Texas has not been sufficiently humiliated, and for her a new military organization is to be created, as you have read in to-day's papers.

A voice—"What do you think about the State of Ohio?"

Well, she is a pretty good State, and I think can take care of herself. [Cheers.]
The fourteenth amendment has been declared, within two days, to be adopted—Ohio and New Jersey before their votes were counted, before the other States had ratified, by solemn acts of their Legisla-you willing that it shall be increased and perpetuated? [Voices, "no, no,"] We pay an enormous rate of interest, Are you willing that it shall year by year eat ratified, by solemn acts of their Legislatures, withdrew their assent to this amendment. says so; the Funding Bill of the Senate says so; the Funding Bill of the House says so, for both propose to pay in legal tender the bonds which are not surrendered for long bonds at a less interest; the Democratic Conventions in Ohio and Indiana, and Illinois and Pennsylvania, and every other Western State say so; the National Convention which sat at New York by a unanimous vote said so. Yet the Republican party, in the face of this concurrent testimony, asserts that these bonds shall be paid in gold; and thus at present rates adds seven hundred millions to the public debt.

I know the Republican Convention gave out an uncertain sound, but their speaking the thing secret until after his departure. He would give his wife the house in Thursday morning he left his home. NASHVILLE, June 16, 1868. The undersigned, in response to the re-quest of a number of physicians and the elatives and friends of the unfortunate subject of this investigation, give the following testimony:
The infant, J. Mrytle Corban, has four legs and two distinct external female or-knot; to tie which with more or less elegance demands a careful examination and many retouches. The sleeves hang like large pockets. To the helt are fastened a gipe in a velvet case and a pocket-book containing two chop-sticks of silver, if it is intended took open to the host who may offer refreshments. In one corner of the pocket-book, sparkles a little mirror, a European 'innovation, for our civilization has made this slight breach of Japanese manners. During the greater portion of the year the feet are bare; in winter they are clad in cotton, and rest upon sandals of varnished wood, kept by wooden supports high enough above the ground to escape the mud and the damp. The sandal is ornamented with braids of straw, sometimes velvet, and held to the foot by a strip of cloth passed between the toes. Occasionally it is re-covered with leather or paper, but it is never honored by being worn in the house. legs and two distinct external female organs of generation, with two external openings of the urethra and two external openings of the double rectum. The external genito-urinary organs are as distinct as if they belonged to two separate human beings. The fieces and urine are passed (most generally simultaneously, particularly the urine) from both external urinary and intestinal openings, situated respectively between the left and right pairs of legs.

The head and trunk are those of aliving, well developed, healthy, action, well developed, healthy, action of about tive weeks, whilst the prortion of the body is divided into the members of two distinct individuals, near the junction of the spinal column seduction, desertion, and death, which happened lately, that it was ever our office to chronicle. In a neighboring county there lived a widowed mother, with an only daughter, and upon the latter had been bestowed every advantage of education and culture which limited means and an assiduous attention could near the junction of the spinal column with the os sacrum. As far as our examination could be prosecuted in the living child, we are led to the belief that the or education and culture which limited means and an assiduous attention could afford. The girl was brought up in the utmost seclusion, but had access to the library of a gentleman of the neighborhood, who had more than ordinary tasto for reading, and who would himself bring such books for her to read as he thought would be instructive and interesting to one of her age and sex. They were visited by very few, for it was necessary for them to live with the strictors.

child, we are led to the belief that the lower portion of the spinal colum is divided or cleft, and that there are two pelvic arches supportiny the four limbs, which are situated upon the same plane.

Photographs of this infant have been made by the adylee and under the supervision of one of our number.

The reality in this case surpasses expectation, and we are of the opinion that this interesting living monstrosity exceeds, in its curious manifestation of the powers of nature in abnormal producpowers of nature in abnormal produc-tions, the celebrated "Siamese Twins," JOSEPH JONES, M. D., Professor of Phys. and Path., University

EVE. FOR THIS JOURNAL. EVE, FOR THIS JOURNAL.

Josephine Myrtle is the third offspring of W. H. and Namey Corban, aged twenty-five and thirty-four, the wife being the senior by nine years. They are so much alike in appearance, having red hair, blue eyes, and very fair complexion, as to produce the impression of their being blood kin, which, however, is not the case. Mrs. Corban is from North Alabama, had borne one child to a former husband, the child having dark coloring, and resem-senior by nine years. They are so much alike in appearance, having red hair, blue eyes, and very fair complexion, as to produce the impression of their being blood kin, which, however, is not the case. Mrs. Corban is from North Alabama, had borne one child to a former husband, the child having dark coloring, and resembling mostly the father, who had black hair and eyes. His three children are all girls; the one already alluded to, now six years old, another three, and this infant monstrosity, now to be more minutely described, born the 12th of May; 1868, in Lincoln County, Tennessee, five weeks ago.

Mr. Corban is a Georgian, served in the confederate army through tho war, and mal left hand. The parents are in fair health, though the mother is anæmic, she recollects no fright or disturbance during her last pregnancy. The presentation was fortunately the head, which accounts for the preservation of the life of the child. It would be curious to speculate on the trouble which might have been produced had the feet or breech presented, while the result, in all probability, would have proved fatal to the infant, and possibly to the mother. Mrs. Corban says there was nothing peculiar in the labor or delivery. When three weeks old. and possibly to the mother. Mrs. Corban says there was nothing peculiar in the labor or delivery. When three weeks old the child weighed ten pounds. It now nurses healthily, is thriving well, and we saw it urinate simultaneously, between the two pairs of labia of the two vagines, situated about six inches apart. From the crown of the head to the umbilicus the child measures twelve inches, and from this point to the toos of the right and left external feet, eleven inches. From the umbidicus up, all is natural and well-formed; all below this extraordinary and unnatubutcas up, all is natural and well-formed; all below this extraordinary and unnatural. An ince below the navel is a mark of an apparent failure for a second one. There are four distinct, pretty well developed, lower extremities. They exist in pairs on both sides of the medium line, which resembled the cleft of an ordinary pair of legs; but here there are no marks whatever of course or control. mary pair of legs; but here there are no marks whatever of annus or genitat organs, and upon pressure, we discover no as accepts or sacrum. The outer legs of both sides are the most natural of the four (though the foot of the right one is clubbed), but are widely separated by the two supernumary ones, which are less developed, except at their junction with the body, from which they taper to the feet and toes more diminutive and which are turned inwards. One toe is bifid on the left extra inward extremity. At birth these extra legs were folded that upon the abdomen. We are led to believe that there are two uteri as well as two resti; in fact that the pelvic organs are double. Of course a minute dissection would alone expose the true condition of these parts. A New York youth has gone to prison for beating his mother. A case of son-of course a minute dissection would alone expose the true condition of these parts.

Should this infant reach maturity, and the internal generative organs be double, there is nothing to proven conception on both sides. The first difficulty will, however, be in her walking. The outer, or external legs, may be used for progression: the inner, or inturned ones, probably never. These might be successfully amputated at the knee, or higher up.

One of us recollects of being in London, in January, 1830, at an exhibition of the Siamese twins, when Sir Astly Cooper gave an opinion adverse to an operation with a view to separate them, but which has always appeared to us feasible and without much risk of peritonitis; an operation, too, which should undoubtedly be performed in case of the death of one of them, for no medical man believes in the vulgar impression that they must die simultaneously. In the present case all surgical interference is, of course, out of the question, except that alluded to—removal of the extra legs.

Cases somewhat similar to the above have occurred and been described. Rokitansky refers to two completely distinct bodies contoined at their cast secent. PECULIAR TO FEMALES. Rokitansky refers to two completely distinct bodies conjoined at their assa sacra or coccyges, as in the well known Hungarian sisters, Helena and Judith, born in 1701, who survived their twenty-second "Chronic Catarrh" and Ozena.

Geoffrey St. Hilaire alludes to cases of a trunk with two heads, some even Janus-like, having four upper and four lower extremities.

The case, however, the first process of the Thront and the case however.

The case, however, recalled most vividly The case, however, recalled most vividly by Josephine Myrtle, is that of Rita Christina, well known in Europe, and accurately described in this country years ago by Professor Meigs. In this wonderful instance, there were two heads, two necks, four arms, but only two legs; and was thus the reverse of our case. From the umbiticus down, there was one well formed child; but above this all the organs were double; in reality there existed two beings. The rectum and bladder were common to both, but all cise in the trunk were double and distinct. One would sleep while the other played, etc., for they had two spinal marrows, two brains, two hearts, but the last two occupied a common pericardium. Unfortuit brains, two hearts, but the last two occu-pled a common pericardium. Unfortu-nately, after surviving a little over a year, one sickened and died, when the other, then in health, instantly expired. Rita and Christina were born in Sardinia, 1829.

In this condition she was found by the kind physician from whom, in part, the facts of her sad history were derived. She gradually sank under disease, neglect and ill-treatment till she became almost helpless; her form wasted away with the slow feyer, and hardly any trace of her former beauty remained.

The docter told her she had but a few days to live, and that she must make without delay. Sho begged piteously to be taken away and not be permitted to die in that den of sin and horror. Her request was compiled with, and in a very few day her sorrows ceased and her shame was hidden in a pauper's grave. SEMINAL EMISSIONS, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or deprayed sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, and noises like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uncasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various cruptions about the face, furred tongue, night sweats, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, monomania, and frequently insanity.

The afflicted, on the first appearance of any of the above symptoms, should immediately apply to Dr. Wm. Thomson for relief.

THE JEFFERSONVILLE RAILROAD AND STOCK KILLING.—A few days ago the New Albany Commercial stated that the Jeffersonville Railroad Company, in employing hands, made it a condition they should sign a contract not to claim any damage for stock killed while in its employ, and condemned it as a harsh measure. We understand that the company has about two hundred men employed to keep the the track in order and free from obstructions. These employes are generally transient people, having no permanent habitation or home. They own no real estate and occupy cabins temporarily along the line of the road. These families generally keep a cow, and having no pasture they turn them out on the track to feed. It will be readily seen that those employes to the people of the south was, we infer will thus risk the killing of their cows if they were able to collect damages for their loss the same as other people. The object of the company is not merely to save it from this kind of loss by the men in their employ, but as a measure of safety to the public, as many accidents occur to post office at Lafayette at the same time. trains by running over cattle upon the But when the radicals attempt to seize Prosecutor of Marion county, was next
